At Baylor College of Medicine, we offer current healthcare information and high quality educational opportunities for the Houston community. Our events over the next few months cover important, cutting-edge topics like ethics of clinical care during an emergency like Hurricane Harvey, machine learning and how your health may be affected by the environment. We also offer volunteer opportunities like the BCM Wellness 5K Race/Walk.

Please see below for more information and, in the right panel, where we have listed current information to protect yourself during emergency weather situations.
Let The Conversation begin . . .
Noon Thursday, Sept. 14, 2017
at Grappino di Nino

We have adapted the first session of the speaker series to focus on a clinical case experienced during Hurricane Harvey. In the Path of Harvey: Ethical Issues in Providing Clinical Care During a Natural Disaster will feature Janet Malek, Ph.D., Associate Professor of Medicine and Medical Ethics. We will explore the science behind ethical justification and demonstrate that some resolutions are better than others.

Register >>

precautions to help keep you and your family safe during severe weather.

Resources

Be a part of the future of medicine.

Click here.

Are you an alumnus?
Machine Learning and the Mind: Advances in Mental Health
11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Sept. 19, 2017 at The Briar Club

Join us at our new location at The Briar Club for a discussion about the future of mental healthcare. Baylor experts Wayne Goodman, M.D., Professor and Chair of the Menninger Department of Psychiatry and Behavioral Sciences, and Andreas Tolias, Ph.D., Founder and Director of the Center for Neuroscience and Artificial Intelligence, discuss the amazing potential that lies at the intersection of neuroscience and machine learning to help treat diseases of the mind.

Register Now >>

Check out events in your area.

Learn more here.

Make a Baylor doctor your doctor!

Search online.
BCM Wellness 5K Race/Walk
7:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 21, 2017
at TMC Commons (across from Baylor)

The student-organized Baylor College of Medicine Wellness 5K Race/Walk will be held Saturday, Oct. 21, 2017, with the starting line at the Texas Medical Center Commons, across from Baylor’s Main (Cullen) entrance. This year marks the sixth annual 5K race hosted by Baylor. If you are unable to run in the race, please check out volunteer and sponsor opportunities. Proceeds from the event go to a charity selected by the Baylor medical students.

Register >>
Donate >>

Stay current on what our faculty and students are accomplishing here.

eventsteam@bcm.edu
713.798.5461

Your gift powers our vision: Improving
Facing Ethics Head-On: Neuroethics and Our Growing Understanding of the Brain
11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 9, 2017
at Grappino di Nino

Neurogenomic information could soon help identify who is at risk of mental health disorders even before symptoms are observed. It could also help prevent the development of disorders, diagnose disorders, select treatment options and improve clinical outcomes. Join Gabriel Lazaro-Munoz, Ph.D., J.D., as we examine the current status of psychiatric genomics.

Register >>
The Environment and Your Health
11:30 a.m. Tuesday, Nov. 14, 2017
at The Briar Club

Is your environment making you sick? Cheryl Walker, Ph.D., Ph.D., Director of the Center for Precision Environmental Health at Baylor, will examine how your everyday surroundings, from the car to the office, can affect a range of health issues. Paul Klotman, M.D., President, CEO and Executive Dean will give a College update.

Register >>