We salute the "Arts in Aging" as a complement to a good life long lived. In this 25th Edition, we again feature the works of current artists ranging from septuagenarians to nonagenarians. The scenes and people they painted depict life in North America, Africa, Europe, and the Australian Continent. The eclectic look of the calendar is indicative of the wonderful differences in people worldwide. Goethe correctly said that "Science and Art belong to the whole World and the barriers of nationality vanish before them." Born in the first half of the last century, these artists remind us daily that older people make important contributions to the quality of our lives. Their creativity is timeless, and the beauty their eyes saw we see in these wonderful works.

January

February
- Rowers on Lady Bird Lake, Dave Reedy (1946-); collection of the artist, Austin, Texas.
- Easy Rider at 83, Charles Peterson (1942-); collection of the artist, Montgomery, Texas.

March
- Barnyard, Jan Sherman (1939-); private collection, Liberty, Texas.

April
- Blue Hydrangeas, Betty Liles (1942-); collection of the artist, Huntsville, Texas.

May
- 24/31, Jan Sherman (1939-); private collection, Liberty, Texas.

June
- The End of Winter, Don Brown; private collection, Houston, Texas.
- John Baldessari, Playing the Fool, 2015, Mixed Media, 30 x 40 in. (76 x 102 cm).
2020 Arts in Aging Calendar
Huffington Center on Aging

We salute the "Arts in Aging" as a complement to a good life long lived. In this 25th edition, we again feature the works of current artists ranging from septuagenarians to nonagenarians. The scenes and people they painted depict life in North America, Africa, Europe, and the Australian Continent; the eclectic look of the calendar is indicative of the wonderful differences in people worldwide. Goethe correctly said that "Science and Art belong to the whole World and the barriers of nationality vanish before them." Born in the first half of the last century, these artists remind us daily that older people make important contributions to the quality of our lives. Their creativity is timeless, and the beauty their eyes saw we see in these wonderful works.